Account settings

Here are a few account settings you may want to set now. You can of course update these settings as well as configure many other account preferences at any time.

Initial account settings

Automatic backup

Your cloud name

du3ukdjyc

Change

Allow fetch URLs

Enabled unsigned uploads

1

Ensures that every uploaded file is copied to a secondary write-protected location and keeps multiple backup revisions per file. Enabling this option increases your storage usage.

Your cloud name is a default component in all your delivery URLs. For example: <https://res.cloudinary.com/du3ukdjyc/image/upload/sample.jpg>.
Note: Make sure you are satisfied with the chosen cloud name. Modifying the cloud name is allowed only while your account still has a small number of resources.

Allows any remote image URL to be dynamically fetched and manipulated using Cloudinary's dynamic URLs.

1

By default, uploading requires a signature-based authenticated API call. Enabling this option allows unsigned uploading of resources, which is useful if you want to allow your users to bypass your servers and upload media assets directly from your Web site or app to your Cloudinary account.

More settings

The above settings are only a few of the many account preferences, customizations, and configurations available. You can manage all your configuration options in the Settings area of the Management Console.
